CLIVEDEN HOUSE

Welcome to our house in the country

One of the world's finest luxury hotels, this grand stately home is the ultimate country escape. Cliveden is blessed with a supreme location in the heart of Berkshire countryside, offering panoramic views over the River Thames, only a short distance from London and Heathrow Airport.

Cliveden is unique. The setting, architecture and interiors all speak eloquently of extraordinary extravagance and remarkable refinement. There is a palpable sense of history, for this house that for 350 years has been dedicated to the pursuit of pleasure, power and politics.

Since the house was built in 1666, Cliveden, infamous for its parties, has played host to numerous notable visitors including; Winston Churchill, President Roosevelt, Charlie Chaplin, George-Bernard Shaw, royalty and celebrities. In 1961, the story turns intriguing when John Profumo met Christine Keeler in the pool, thus igniting the biggest political scandal in British history: The Profumo Affair.

The house became a luxury hotel in 1985, opening its doors to a new generation of pleasure-seekers. Now, Cliveden is a privately owned, 5 Red Star award-winning luxury hotel.

Can you resist an invitation?

THE BIG DAY

You have been preparing for your wedding day for months – maybe years even – and it has finally arrived. The part you’re probably most excited about is the ceremony, but in fact, there’s no reason the magic of the day can’t begin the moment you wake up.

Whether it’s awakening to bright sunshine spilling through your bedroom window at Spring Cottage - where the bride or groom may decide to spend the night before with friends or family – or whether it’s starting your day surrounded by the decadence of one of the main house suites, the emphasis will be on relaxation.

Indeed, whether your wedding is formal or informal, classic or more intimate, you will want to prepare in surroundings where you can feel comfortable and at home. Cliveden’s staff will see to it that no arrangements are left to your wedding day, so that you can enjoy a completely stress-free morning.

You’ve selected Cliveden because you want something quintessentially English – classic, romantic and elegant with a country feel – so what could be more apt than beginning the day with English Breakfast tea brought to your room? Then enjoy a leisurely breakfast with friends or family either in your room or, weather permitting, outside.

Next, why not head off to the secluded Walled Garden and Pavilion Spa for a massage and pamper session with the girls? Or simply enjoy the seclusion of Spring Cottage. Meanwhile, chaps may prefer a full English breakfast in the André Garrett Restaurant in the main house, followed by time in the snooker room or a game of tennis with the boys.

When it’s time for the hair and make-up team, brides may choose to be in a main house suite or again, the secluded retreat of Spring Cottage. Take your time, enjoying a glass or two of bubbly while you get ready for your grand entrance. This is a good time to start capturing some precious memories of the day on film. Already familiar with the magnificent setting, fairy-tale architecture and opulent interiors, Cliveden’s recommended photographers will be sure to get the best possible shots.

By this time (or later if you decide to have a church wedding and return to Cliveden for your reception), your guests will be starting to arrive via the spectacular driveway with the iconic Fountain of Love. The interior of the main house, or indeed Spring Cottage, will not disappoint their sense of anticipation of the stately drive and magnificent facade.

Moreover, from the moment they arrive, your guests will be treated like royalty, with a personalised service and attention to detail that have become the hallmarks of Cliveden. There will be no shortage of opportunities to break the ice when it comes to them meeting other guests, thanks to Cliveden's rich, fascinating and sometimes scandalous history.

If your ceremony is to take place at Cliveden – whether in Spring Cottage, The Boudoir, The French Dining Room or The Lady Astor Suite - you can rest assured the room will look breath-taking. Since every wedding also has its very own story of detail and design, not to mention its very own atmosphere and personality, you can be sure it will reflect your relationship too.

And now for your big moment. It's the moment that everything comes together, after what can seem like forever, but suddenly feels worth the wait. Again, the photographer, who will be well accustomed to the interiors and the light, will be able to capture it all perfectly.

As you walk hand-in-hand out of your ceremony (or back into the estate following a church wedding), be sure to make the most of some of the surrounding 376 acres of National Trust parkland for your photographs. The panoramic views over the beautiful Berkshire countryside and River Thames make for remarkable backdrops, as do the impressive interiors, with their unrivalled attention to detail.

Cliveden is renowned for its long history of parties, so guests can't fail to soak up the atmosphere of merriment and fun. Then onto the wedding breakfast, to enjoy award-winning cuisine and hospitality in one of the many magnificent rooms, before moving onto the speeches and first dance. By the end of the evening, your only disappointment will be that it all has to end.

And so to bed. Blissfully exhausted after your unforgettable day, your bridal suite will await you. In fact, thanks to its romantic history, luxurious surroundings and superb facilities, Cliveden is a popular choice for many couples to stay for more than one night before or following their wedding, perhaps before jet setting off from nearby Heathrow.

With opportunities including a dreamy stroll through the grounds, a jaunt down the River Thames in one of Cliveden's private boats, a Champagne afternoon tea and a lazy woodland picnic; it's hard to think of a more romantic place to begin a marriage.

Relish every happy moment of your wedding day by leaving some of the organisation to the experts. Having a toastmaster makes the world of difference to your special day. He or she ensures that your wedding runs smoothly and calmly so you don't have to worry. Sip champagne and chat with guests, while the toastmaster takes care of your guests and makes sure the entertainment, photographs and food are all running to schedule. Another essential person at your wedding is the wedding celebrant, who conducts the service. Choose someone with a great reputation and that you trust to make your dream day a reality.

LITTLE TREASURES

Cliveden is the most wonderful place to spend time with the family in truly inspiring surroundings. Children will love exploring the acres of National Trust grounds, including the impressive Cliveden maze. The grounds offer families ample opportunity to relax, but you can also give parents the chance to completely unwind without leaving their child behind, by opting for professional childcare. Employing high quality professional childcare means that children can be involved in all the parts of the wedding you wish, and safely entertained in those parts you would prefer to keep child-free.

"The best thing since sliced bread.

Great having a party where the children had more fun than the grown ups! And I wanted to do the cheerleading lesson."

FLORISTRY

The wedding flowers, from the bridal bouquet to table centrepieces, are a chance to express your personality and wedding theme. Whether you dream of a fragrant trailing bouquet of peonies, roses and jasmine finished with a raffia bow, or table decorations of delicate wild flowers in elegant vases, talk to a trusted florist early on in your wedding planning. A good idea might be to take floral inspiration from wedding magazines or Pinterest while deciding on blooms for your celebratory day. Take your time in making a decision; perfect petals are a finishing touch you'll never forget.

TRANSPORT

Have you always imagined arriving at your wedding in a beautiful horse and carriage? Not only is arriving in a stunning carriage like stepping into a fairy-tale, but leaving the driving to someone else means that the transport is totally stress free. Consider your guests' transport too. Hiring cars for all the wedding guests allows everyone to enjoy a glass or two of champagne without the worry of driving.
